

Webinar Series

A Conversation with Dr. Jenny Chan on Internships and Labor in China

Wednesday, January 13, 2021, 11am CST (US)

In this webinar Dr. Jenny Chan from Hong Kong Polytechnic University will talk with CCWT Director Matthew Hora about her newly published book, Dying for an iPhone (2020; Haymarket Books), and its key findings regarding the status of high school and college internships in China and how they involve the production of Apple's popular devices including iPhones and iPads. Dr. Chan will also speak about the state of the labor market in China since the onset of the Covid-19 pandemic, and her new research on express delivery workers in China.

Dr. Jenny Chan is a recipient of Early Career Scheme funding awarded by the Research Grants Council of Hong Kong (2018-2022). She also serves as the vice president of the International Sociological Association's Research Committee on Labor Movements (2018-2022). Dying for an iPhone: Apple, Foxconn and the Lives of China's Workers is her first co-authored book with Mark Selden and Pun Ngai (Haymarket Books & Pluto Press, 2020).

Use the following link to register:

<https://bit.ly/3p0wnj0>

Webinar host: Dr. Matthew T. Hora (UW-Madison)

Special Guest: Dr. Jenny Chan, Assistant Professor of Sociology at the Hong Kong Polytechnic University

The Center for Research on College-Workforce Transitions (CCWT) is an initiative of the Wisconsin Center for Education Research (WCER). CCWT's mission is to conduct and support research, critical policy analysis, and public dialogue on how college students experience the transition to the workforce. CCWT strives to inform policies, programs, and practices that promote academic and career success for all learners.

Wisconsin Center for Education Research
SCHOOL OF EDUCATION
UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON